I lost everything when I lost my grandmother. Desperate for a fresh start, I accepted a job that would take me far away from my old life. But no sooner does my life in Italy begin before I meet him - the man who would change everything and awaken my heart.

Robert De Marco is like no one I've ever met before, but how deeply I fall for him scares me beyond words. As war wages around us and startling revelations about who I am and who I'm meant to be become increasingly clear, I find myself torn between choosing to love him and wanting to protect myself from him.

As danger grows around us, my dragon shapeshifting abilities grow stronger, but will they be enough to help me save the world from impending doom and protect myself from potential heartache?
