In his big tent, he had something wild no man had yet to tame. Jeffrey, a circus performer, has always longed for a permanent family, but being shuffled from big top to big top hasn't afforded him much opportunity for a loving home. But when he first lays eyes on the scaled man in Edgar's freak show, something clicks within his heart. Dragon shifter Michael has endured years of dark captivity, held in between his forms, powerless to break Edgar's hold on him and others within the freak show. Never did he think another life was possible, until Jeffrey entered his trailer. Now the two men will have to find their courage and will in order to stay together. They have everything to live for, and everything to lose.
