Is destiny your friend or your enemy?

A year after Pulitzer journalist Brenda Contay killed a killer, she's convinced what she did has destined her to a life of unhappiness. Determined to run away from her past, and the man she loves, Brenda meets her next story in Naples, Florida.

James Rivera is smart, charming, and deadly. He believes he's destiny's child and that fate is why he's getting rich by helping people who want to die. Even when they change their minds.

Brenda's search for the story behind James Rivera will lead her back to her troubled past, and to a life-changing lesson: destiny isn't waiting for us. It's what we make it.
