Are you the wife of a professional athlete or high-profile figure? Are your dreams on hold while you watch your husband live out his? Sidelined No More discusses one of the greatest struggles of a wife married to a high-profile professional athlete: losing her identity. When she's thrust into a world of fame, fortune, stress, and pressure, few can relate or comprehend it. A woman who was once strong, confident, and sure of herself doesn't even recognize who she sees in the mirror. Who understands? Who can sympathize? Who even sees that there's a woman behind the shadows of her husband longing to be seen, uncertain of her purpose, and doubtful of her worth? As a former NFL wife herself, author Eileen Noyes will walk with you on a journey to get you out of the shadows and truly living again.

"I see her. I can sympathize. I understand because I was her."

- Find your true identity outside of being just "the wife of..."
- Understand and live out the God-given purpose for which you are destined.
- Find hope in the midst of your storm.
- Walk confidently with clarity, wisdom, and strength in all seasons that come with the game of professional sports.
