Mila

Pregnant and married at the young age of eighteen, I settled into my life not knowing there could ever be more.

Until Mason, with his sexy smirk and magnetic baby blue eyes.

With a single look and a few words, he made me feel sexy and alive.

But as quickly as he came into my life, he was gone, leaving me wanting more.

A few days later, my mom died, and her final words of advice "life's too short to settle" are what I vowed to live my life by. Not even a year after her death, I was divorced and ready to find the one.

Only I didn't realize how difficult it would be to find someone who could make me feel the way Mason did.

Five years later, and I'm still single, looking for my forever.

Mason

I'm the guy who fights and f*cks.

The guy who goes fishing but never keeps what he catches.

The responsibility that comes with commitment isn't for me.

Until Mila comes back into my life, making me want things I've never imagined wanting.

Now, the man I've always been is quickly losing the fight against the man I want to be.

I'm supposed to want the woman who wants the right now.

Yet, I'm falling for the woman who wants the forever.
