Synopsis

In today's longform weekend podcast - Glenn recaps the Trump legal stories of the week. First, Glenn talks about Florida Judge Aileen Cannon who has made a ruling on when the classified documents trial should be held. Glenn says she split the difference between both parties. Next, there's new information about Trump's Georgia state election crimes as reports now say that DA Fani Willis will bring RICO charges to the table when indictments are announced. Then, Glenn discusses Donald Trump revealing he received a target letter warning him he is about to be indicted for trying to overturn Biden's win in the 2020 election. Glenn explains what target letters are and explores the 3 different charges that are listed in the target letter. And finally, Glenn talks about the need to reform ethics in government. Trump committed many crimes and the GOP ignored it as it happened. How can we fix this in the future? Glenn talks about his idea to reform ethics in government, misprision of a felony, and adding 22 words to the oath of office to make government workers more accountable.
