Zan West has a strange power that only works on girls. He doesn't know why he has this so-called "œgift", but it's killing his chances of ever getting a girlfriend.

Then he meets an older girl named Austin, and she's strangely immune to his power. Zan can't see her secrets, but he can't see her future, either. There's something she isn't telling him, and it's driving him mad.

Zan consults a powerful witch who offers him peace of mind in exchange for his power. What he doesn't know is this so-called peace of mind comes with a big bad heaping of death. The permanent kind.
